UK Airlines welcome relaxation in hand baggage limits

The British Air Transport Association welcomes the announcement of new security requirements made by the UK Government today. A spokesman said –

“We welcome these changes which will mean that, from tomorrow, the hand baggage that passengers will be allowed to carry onto the aircraft at UK airports will be more in line with the limitations in other countries.

However, there remain a number of inconsistencies on issues such as liquids and we support and encourage urgent work to agree and implement international standards which will deliver robust aviation security and minimise the inconvenience that our customers continue to experience.”
